OPEN SCIENCE

I am dedicated to the principles of Open Science, striving for accessibility in publications, data, and software. Below is a list of my contributions to projects in this movement.

Voice clip validation

Mozilla Common Voice

500+ clips validated

Common Voice is an initiative allowing individuals donate their voice or validate voice clips, in order to build a large database of open voice data used to improve NLP projects.

Data entry

MusicBrainz

50+ entries

MusicBrainz is an open music encyclopedia that collects music metadata and makes it available to the public. Users can add entries for missing artists, releases, and recordings.
